About Arts Law Centre of Australia and the Artists in the Black project

The Arts Law Centre of Australia is the national community legal centre for the arts in Australia.

The Artists in the Black project aims to increase access to advice and information about Indigenous artists' legal rights on all arts related matters through the delivery of a culturally appropriate service.

About Viscopy

Viscopy is a collecting agency that represents over 3000 Indigenous artists in Australia.

Viscopy represents its artist members for the full range of rights including reproduction, publication and communication by providing copyright users with authorised access to thousands of artistic works for commercial, non-commercial and educational purpose.
